Tax Research, Practice, and Procedure

TRUE-FALSE QUESTIONS—CHAPTER 2

Questions 21–44 have been adapted from the IRS Examinations.

1. Committee reports of the House Ways and Means Committee, the Senate Finance Committee, and the conference committees are published by the Government Printing Office and are also reprinted in the Internal Revenue Bulletin and Cumulative Bulletin.
2. Title 26 of the United States Code contains the statutes that authorize the Treasury Department, specifically, the Internal Revenue Service, to collect taxes for the federal government.
3. Section numbers run consecutively through the entire Code, but with occasional breaks in their sequence.
4. All Revenue Rulings are published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, and eventually in the Cumulative Bulletin.
5. If the IRS revokes or modifies a published ruling, open tax years can be retroactively affected for all taxpayers.
6. Since regulations, revenue rulings, and acquiesced Tax Court decisions all lack judicial authority, an IRS agent would more easily be persuaded by reference to District Court and Circuit Court decisions.
7. Information Releases (IRs) usually are not published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, but are distributed via a practitioners' mailing list.
8. Private letter rulings by the Internal Revenue Service are only made available by an official court order.
9. A thorough legislative history and background of a Section of the Internal Revenue Code is generally found in the CCH and RIA tax services.
10. The Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is arranged as follows: Chapter, Subtitle, Subchapter, Part, Section, Subpart, Subsection.
11. The IRS must follow the precedents set by decisions of the U.S. Court of Federal Claims.
12. In a Court of Appeals dispute between the 5th and 8th Circuits, the U.S. Tax Court operating within the 5th Circuit will usually refer the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.
13. Current tax law dates back only to post-1986 Internal Revenue Code developments.
14. The Citator Service outlines the history of a court case, from inception, through appeals and tells which later cases or rulings have cited it.
15. The CCH "Citator," outlines current amendments to the Code.

16. The Mertens tax service is a tax service that is sometimes cited by the courts.
17. “Closed Fact” tax research relates to the various procedures involved in “before-the-facts planning” situations.
18. Tax Court decisions that involve issues not previously decided by the Court are released as Memorandum decisions.
19. The IRS might issue an Acquiescence or a Nonacquiescence to a Regular Tax Court decision, but not to a Memorandum decision.
20. Tax “evasion” and “avoidance” are almost identical concepts, both relating to the willful failure to comply with tax laws.
21. A practitioner who is an income tax return preparer and who files a power of attorney with the Internal Revenue Service may receive and endorse a taxpayer’s refund check.
22. A corporation may be represented by one of its bona fide officers before the Internal Revenue Service.

23. An individual who is a regular full-time employee of a partnership may represent the partnership before the Internal Revenue Service.
24. An accountant discovers an error on a client's returns. The accountant must advise the client and the Internal Revenue Service of the error.
25. A claim for refund (Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return) must be filed within three years from the date the return was due or filed, or within two years from the date the tax was paid, whichever is later.
26. A notice of deficiency received by a taxpayer from the Internal Revenue Service means that a proposed tax liability has been automatically assessed and the taxpayer can no longer take his or her case to the Tax Court.
27. Determination letters regarding the written qualifications of an individually designed retirement plan are issued by the Internal Revenue Service's National Office in Washington.
28. The taxpayer or the Government may appeal decisions of a District Court to the Court of Appeals.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROBLEMS—CHAPTER 2

119. Compare and contrast the following tax related terms: “statutory” tax provision v. tax “doctrine.”
120. List and discuss the various “primary” or “authoritative” sources of tax reference materials.
121. In which government publications are proposed, temporary, and final Treasury Regulations reproduced?
122. Assume that the citation for a given Revenue Ruling is as follows: Rev. Rul. 82-45, 1982-1 CB 234. Explain what the various abbreviations and numbers mean.
123. Why is Mertens Law of Federal Taxation frequently quoted in judicial decisions?
124. What role does the Internal Revenue Service play in interpreting the tax law?
125. What sanctions are available to the AICPA Tax Division which might be invoked for noncompliance by one of its members with the various Statements on Responsibilities in Tax Practice?
126. Judy Jensen files her return two months after the due date and pays the remaining $20,000 of tax owed by her. What are her delinquency penalties?
127. Due to negligence, Roy Rugby underpaid his taxes by $50,000. What is his total negligence penalty?
128. Stanley Strummer had the following items on his timely filed 2012 income tax return:

Gross receipts	$1,000,000
Cost of goods sold	($750,000)
Capital gain	$50,000
Capital loss	($75,000)

Stanley inadvertently omitted some income on his 2012 return. What is the statute of limitations if he omitted $300,000 income on the return? What if he omitted $250,000 income?

129. Nancy Norris gives a painting to a church and takes a charitable contribution in the amount of $150,000. If the actual value was only $50,000 and if the tax underpayment is $40,000, how much valuation overstatement penalty should she pay?
130. Answer the following questions concerning the statute of limitations for assessment of tax liability: (a.) What is the general rule for the statute of limitations on assessment of tax liability? (b.) What are the exceptions to the general rule?
131. What are the five accuracy-related penalties?
132. What factors should a taxpayer consider in deciding whether to litigate a case and where to litigate?
133. What are some reasonable causes for failure to file a tax return and/or to pay one’s tax liability?
134. The Federal Tax Archives Library of CCH ACCESS contains information on tax laws from prior tax years. Describe why this information may be useful to a tax return preparer.

ANSWERS TO TRUE-FALSE QUESTIONS—CHAPTER 2

1. True.
2. True. See especially Sections 1 and 11, both entitled “Tax Imposed,” also Section 6301—Collection Authority; Section 7805—Rules and Regulations.
3. True. Occasionally, because the section numbers do run consecutively, a lettered section number, for example 44A, 50A, 50B, may have to be interspersed among existing sections.
4. True. However, sometimes delays will occur and a ruling with a later number may be published before one with an earlier number.
5. True. The IRS does have the power to retroactively revoke rulings for open years (see Code Sec. 7805(b)). Letter rulings, which directly affect only the taxpayers who requested them, are rarely revoked retroactively.
6. False. An agent must follow all IRS pronouncements, whereas the IRS (through its agents) will often dispute, or interpret in its own way, decisions of the courts.
7. False. IRs are sent to media, including tax publications. Frequently, the substance of an IR may find its way into an IRB.
8. False. Under the Freedom of Information Act and under the Tax Reform Act of 1976, the IRS is required to make public all private rulings and other written determinations issued to taxpayers concerning the tax treatment of specific transactions. However, names, addresses of taxpayers, etc. will be deleted.
9. False. Occasionally these services will carry an excerpt of legislative history. Legislative history may be found in reports of the Ways and Means Committee, the Senate Finance Committee or the Joint Conference Committee, all of which may be found in the Cumulative Bulletins. Discussions on the floor of Congress are reported in the Federal Register. CCH and RIA will frequently publish special booklets with legislative reports. Extracts of reports for pre-1954 Codes may be found in Seidman’s Legislative History.
10. False. The correct arrangement is: Subtitle, Chapter, Subchapter, Part, Subpart, Section, Subsection.
11. False.
12. False. The Tax Court operating within the 5th Circuit will usually follow the precedent of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.
13. False. The current law of federal taxation is found in the 1986 Code, as amended by post-1986 tax acts. The Code was first enacted in 1939 and a revised Code was enacted in 1954. The 1986 Code incorporates the 1954 Code.
14. True. A citator does not look at any events preceding a case.
15. False. The “Citator” indicates which later cases or rulings have cited the relevant case.
16. True.
17. False. Closed fact research relates to “after-the-facts compliance” or ex post facto research.
18. False. Issues not previously decided by the Court are issued as Regular Tax Court decisions, whereas decisions that rest on federal determinations or on previously decided legal issues are known as Memorandum decisions.
19. False. The IRS might issue an Acquiescence or a Nonacquiescence to either type of decision.
20. False. Tax evasion relates to sham transactions, schemes, or willful failure to comply with tax laws. In contrast, “tax avoidance” relates to the legal tax planning ideas that may be employed to minimize taxes.
21. False. Endorsing a taxpayer’s refund check is not allowed and there is a preparer penalty for doing so.
22. True.
23. True.
24. False. The accountant should advise the client but not the Internal Revenue Service.
25. True.
26. False. The taxpayer can still go to the Tax Court.

27. False. Determination letters are issued by the District Director.
28. True.
29. False. Decisions of the Court of Federal Claims are first appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and then may be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.
30. True.
31. True.
32. True.
33. False. A taxpayer does not have to pay the tax before petitioning the Tax Court.
34. False. Doris Duncan may file a petition at any time within 90 days of the issuance of the statutory notice of deficiency.
35. True.
36. True.
37. False. The Tax Court is more likely to be lenient in its enforcement of the rules of evidence.
38. False. A jury is not allowed in the Tax Court, only in the District Court.
39. False. Payment of tax is necessary to litigate in the District Court or the Court of Federal Claims, but not in the Tax Court.
40. False. Taxpayers may request a determination letter from the District Director.
41. False. It is not the responsibility of an accountant to notify the IRS (see AICPA Statement No. 6).
42. False. The claim for refund must be filed within three years from the date the return was filed or within two years from the date the tax was paid, whichever is later.
43. False. See flowchart in Exhibit 9 in the book text. Taxpayer may go to Tax Court.
44. False. The dollar amount is less than $2,500, so Barry is not required to submit a written protest with his request to the Appeals Office.
45. True. Secondary sources such as tax services, citators, and legal periodicals explain and comment on primary sources of authority.
46. False. Regulations are the Secretary of the Treasury's interpretations of the provisions in the Code, not the President's interpretations.
47. False. AICPA Statements on Standards for Tax Service are enforceable only against AICPA members.
48. True. The Internal Revenue Code of 1939 was the first codification of the previous annual revenue acts.
49. False. Revenue legislation begins in the House of Representatives, more specifically the House Ways and Means Committee.
50. True. The internal revenue laws as revised by the Tax Reform Act of 1986 resulted in the naming of the Code as the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.
51. True.
52. False. The Supreme Court is not obligated to hear all federal tax cases that it has been requested to review. The Court frequently denies certiorari.
53. True. These are three types of regulations which have different weight.
54. True.
55. True. IRS employees follow the rulings, but taxpayers may appeal adverse return examination decisions based on these rulings.
56. True.
57. True.
58. False. Practice before the IRS is available for CPAs and attorneys also as well as a few other groups.
59. True.

60. True. The Code and revenue rulings are primary sources of authority.
61. False. Research products of publishing companies are secondary sources of authority, not primary sources of authority.
62. True.
63. False. Taxpayers cannot go directly to the IRS Appeals Office.
64. False. The amount involved must be $50,000 or less.

ANSWERS TO MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS—CHAPTER 2

65. c. This is the customary format, which does not correspond with traditional outline format described in various style manuals.
66. b. However, an acceptable variation could allow for the omission of 1972.
67. b. The court and date are sometimes omitted.
68. d. Additionally, the Compilations reflect the pertinent court cases, Revenue Rulings, and Revenue Procedures as annotations to the Code Sections and Regulations.
69. d. LEXIS/NEXIS accesses the full texts of primary source materials.
70. c. The 16th Amendment to the Constitution.
71. b. Revenue Rulings present administrative interpretations of tax law.
72. b. Courts are not bound to follow Treasury Regulations when they are in conflict with the law.
73. c. Treasury Regulations are cross-referenced to related Code sections. For example, a Treasury Regulation in support of Code Section 453 would be cited as Reg. Sec. 1.453. In contrast, the other sources of tax law have their own unique numbering system.
74. d. The IRS Form—Revenue Agent’s Report is typically referred to as the “RAR.”
75. b. The Treasury Department is authorized by the Internal Revenue Code to publish interpretations of the law. In contrast, the other pronouncements listed in this question are issued by the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS derives its authority from the Treasury Department. Thus, IRS pronouncements do not have the same legal authority as Treasury Regulations.
76. d. Determination Letters are issued by the Regional Offices of the IRS and are not published.
77. d. The District Offices are regarded as the IRS field offices and handle all office and field audits, other than correspondence audits.
78. d. It is impossible to start the audit procedure over once the 30-day letter has been issued.
79. b. Correspondence audits are conducted by mail and typically involve matching of various types of information returns with selected tax returns, looking for discrepancies in reported amounts.
80. c. The tax practitioner is often called upon to represent a client before the Audit and Appellate divisions of the IRS.
81. c. “Tax Doctrine” refers to a judicial interpretation with strong precedential value. For example, the Doctrine of Constructive Receipt is not a statutory provision of tax law, but judicial support gives strength to this concept.
82. b. Revenue Rulings are published in the Cumulative Bulletin. In addition, the Cumulative Bulletin also includes Revenue Procedures.
83. d. Following each section of the Compilations (Vols. 1 through 18) are digests of associated judicial decisions and Revenue Rulings. Current Revenue Rulings are reproduced in full text in Vol. 19 of the CCH Tax Service.
84. c. The CCH Citator includes all BTA and Tax Court cases, as well as all tax related cases in the District Courts, Court of Federal Claims, Courts of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court. The Finding Lists section of the CCH Citator includes Private Letter Rulings reported by CCH in full text and outlines the history of most Revenue Rulings.
85. c. Attorneys, CPAs, and enrolled agents specifically are permitted to represent clients or “practice before the IRS.”
86. c. (a.), (b), and (d) are considered “mathematical errors” under Code Sec. 6213, but an omission of income is not.
87. d. A jury trial is available only in the District Court.
88. d. Employment tax litigation is not under the Tax Court’s jurisdiction.
89. d. If the fraud penalty is assessed, the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax penalty may be assessed, but not the penalties in (a), (b), or (c).

90. c. The preparer could be subject to a “per return” penalty of $5,000 if any part of any understatement of liability as to a return or claim for refund is due to a willful attempt to understate the liability.
91. d. A preparer is subject to a penalty of $500 if the preparer endorses or otherwise negotiates a refund check issued to a taxpayer for a return or claim for refund prepared by the preparer.
92. c. Interest is paid if any overpayment is not refunded within 45 days after the due date of the return (or filing date, if later).
93. a. There is no limitation on the statute of limitations if the taxpayer willfully evades taxes.
94. d. The National Taxpayer Advocate is in charge of the Problem Resolution Program.
95. d. If a taxpayer under review disagrees with the revenue agent, he or she may do any of the three options listed in (a), (b), or (c).
96. c. New issues may be raised only if the grounds for such action are “substantial.”
97. b. Form 870-AD does not stop the running of interest when filed.
98. b. Determination letters are issued by the District Director.
99. c. There is no limitation on the period for assessment if the taxpayer files a false return.
100. c. The amended return would have to be filed within three years of the due date of the return, or April 15, 2015.
101. d. An office examination and an examination conducted by correspondence are excluded as answers, i.e., they do not require a written protest to obtain appeals office consideration. The situation in which no written protest is required to obtain an appeals conference involves a field examination case in which the amount of the additional tax is $2,500 or less for a taxable period. Since the amount in part (a) is only $2,000, a protest is not required. Therefore, (d) is the correct answer.
102. d. Barbara’s claim must be filed within three years from the time the original return was filed or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever of these two periods has the later expiration. Therefore, the time is June 15, 2014.
103. d. The Court of Federal Claims decision must be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit.
104. e. The maximum deficiency that can be handled by the “Small Tax Cases” procedures of the U.S. Tax Court is $50,000.
105. b. The two Congressional Committees that have primary responsibility for the drafting of tax bills are the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee.
106. d. These are all secondary sources of authority.
107. a. Committee Reports are most likely to help explain the intent of Congress when it enacts tax legislation.
108. b. In addition to regulations, the IRS issues rulings and pronouncements that interpret and apply the tax laws to a specific set of facts.
109. b. If the IRS issues a “nonacquiescence,” it does not accept the court’s conclusion and does not intend to follow the decision in disputes involving other taxpayers with similar situations.
110. c. District courts hear many types of federal law cases, not just those involving federal tax law.
111. a. Some citators are published by commercial publishers, such as CCH, but not by the IRS.
112. a. F.3d indicates a Court of Appeals case. Fed. Cl. indicates a Court of Federal Claims case and F. Supp 2d indicates a District court case.
113. a. Regulations can be in the form of temporary, proposed, or final.
114. c. The Tax Court can choose to issue an opinion as a “Regular” opinion if it considers the case to be important or expressive of a new point not covered in its other published opinions.
115. b. It is false to state that the rules contained in temporary regulations can never be used as authority by taxpayers but are meant to aid in taxpayer compliance with IRS rules and regulations. The rules contained in temporary regulations can be used as authority.

- 116. d. All of the items listed are primary sources of authority.
- 117. d. April 15, 2015. The last day for filing for refund is 3 years after the due date of the return.
- 118. b. The taxpayer has 30 days to file a written protest.

ANSWERS TO SUPPLEMENTARY PROBLEMS—CHAPTER 2

119. A statutory provision relates to the Internal Revenue Code whereas a tax doctrine is a well recognized principle that has evolved from judicial interpretation of the laws.
120. Statutory: The Code. Administrative: Treasury Regulations and Internal Revenue Service Rulings. Judicial: The various decisions of the trial and appellate courts.
121. The Federal Register.
122. The 45th Revenue Ruling of 1982, found on page 234 of the 1st Cumulative Bulletin of 1982.
123. Mertens is frequently quoted because it is a heavily annotated tax service, providing in-depth discussions of general concepts of tax law. However, Mertens is not generally used as a comprehensive, self-contained reference service.
124. The IRS issues Revenue Rulings, Revenue Procedures, and Technical Information Releases as administrative interpretations of the law. Additionally, the IRS issues Private Letter Rulings, Technical Advice Memoranda, and Determination Letters.
125. None. The Statements are really only advisory opinions of the AICPA as to what are appropriate standards of conduct in certain situations. However, tax practitioners should be familiar with the Statements since they indicate the viewpoint of the AICPA and some accounting firms use the Statements as policy in their firms.
126. Judy's total penalties (disregarding interest) are $2,000 consisting of a failure to pay penalty of $200 ($.5\% \times 2 \text{ months} \times $20,000$) and a failure to file penalty of $1,800 ($5\% \times 2 \text{ months} \times $20,000$) less ($.5\% \times 2 \text{ months} \times $20,000$).
127. Roy's penalty is $10,000 ($20\% \times $50,000$).
128. 25 percent of gross income of $1,050,000 ($$1,000,000 + $50,000$) is $262,500. If Stanley omitted $300,000 income which is greater than $262,500, the statute of limitation would be six years. If Stanley omitted $250,000 income which is less than $262,500, the statute of limitation would be three years.
129. The valuation claimed ($150,000) is 300 percent of the correct valuation ($50,000). The penalty is 40 percent of the underpayment of tax. Nancy's underpayment of tax is $40,000, which means the penalty is $16,000.
130. (a.) Assessment of any tax must be made within three years after the return was filed or after the due date for filing, whichever is later.
- (b.) The exceptions to the general rule are as follows:
- (1.) There is no limitation on the period for assessment in the following cases: (1) false return; (2) willful attempt to evade tax; and (3) no return.
 - (2.) If the taxpayer omits from gross income an amount that is in excess of 25 percent of the amount of gross income stated on the return, the tax may be assessed at any time within six years after the return is filed or the due date for filing, whichever is later.
 - (3.) Where both the taxpayer and the IRS agree, the statute of limitations may be extended for a specific period.
 - (4.) Certain taxpayers may request a prompt assessment. The period of assessment may be shortened to 18 months in the case of a decedent, the estate of a decedent, or a corporation that is dissolved or contemplating dissolution.
 - (5.) If a personal holding company fails to file with its return a schedule regarding its status as a personal holding company, the tax may be assessed at any time within six years after the return is filed.
 - (6.) In the case of a deficiency attributable to the application of a carryback (capital loss, net operating loss, or credit), the statute of limitations runs from the year of the loss rather than the carryback year. Sections 1311 through 1314 contain provisions to mitigate the effect of the statute of limitations where inequitable results might occur.

131. The accuracy-related penalties are as follows:
- (1.) Negligence
 - (2.) Substantial understatement of income tax
 - (3.) Substantial valuation overstatement
 - (4.) Substantial overstatement of pension liabilities
 - (5.) Substantial estate or gift tax valuation understatement
132. Factors to consider in deciding whether to litigate a case and where to litigate include:
- (1.) Jurisdiction
 - (2.) Payment of tax
 - (3.) Jury trial
 - (4.) Rules of evidence
 - (5.) Expertise of judges
 - (6.) Publicity
 - (7.) Legal precedent
 - (8.) Factual precedent
 - (9.) Statute of limitations
 - (10.) Discovery
133. The following are some reasonable causes for purposes of the delinquency penalties:
- (1.) A return mailed in time but returned for insufficient postage.
 - (2.) A return filed within the legal period but in the wrong district.
 - (3.) Death or serious illness of the taxpayer or in the immediate family.
 - (4.) Unavoidable absence of the taxpayer.
 - (5.) Destruction of the taxpayer's business or business records by fire or other casualty.
 - (6.) Erroneous information given the taxpayer by an IRS official, or a request for proper blanks or returns not furnished by the IRS in sufficient time to permit the filing of the return by the due date.
 - (7.) Taxpayer made an effort to obtain assistance or information necessary to complete the return by a personal appearance at an IRS office but was unsuccessful because the taxpayer, through no fault, was unable to see an IRS representative.
 - (8.) The taxpayer is unable to obtain the records necessary to determine the amount of tax due for reasons beyond the taxpayer's control.
 - (9.) Taxpayer contacts a competent tax adviser, furnishes the necessary information, and then is incorrectly advised that the filing of a return is not required.
134. Occasionally a tax return preparer may have a client who has failed to file tax returns for numerous years. The Federal Tax Archives Library offers information on tax rates and allowable deductions since the 1978 tax year. Also, a tax return preparer may discover that an error was made on a prior year's return. The Federal Tax Archives Library can be useful in preparing an amended tax return.
