4. The text identifies several highly sophisticated toxicology technologies capable of rendering diagnosis. T F
5. Level of care criterion is the same for both adolescents and adults. T F

The following are all short answer questions:

1. A clinician should be knowledgeable in the community demographics and cultures. Why is this referral in treatment, or the selection of referrals sources?
 - a. (P. 35, Referral) There are few treatment agencies that can provide for all the clients' needs. We generally need a community approach that can help with issues of physical health, vocational support/training, spiritual needs, credit repair, etc. Knowing of these resources is paramount to effective referrals.
2. Typically, addiction impacts multiple areas of a person's life. What are some typical complicating issues and needs a person may have? What are some community resource systems that may be important to be familiar with?
 - a. (P.35–36, Referral) Typical issues are medical complaints, mental health issues, and legal problems. For these reasons, it is important to know referral resources for health care, mental health care, legal aid, etc.
3. One of the elements critical to treatment placement is recovery/living environment. Why is this important to consider. Given an example how living environment can aid recovery? Be a barrier to recovery?
 - a. (P. 39–40, ASAM Placement Criterion) What if a client lives in a living situation where everyone drug use is rampant. Would not this increase their likelihood of relapse? Similarly what if some lives with another person in recovery, and has no access to mood altering substances in their home environment. This can reduce some relapse potential.
4. John is self-referred to treatment for Opiate use. He was diagnosed with a Opiate Use Disorder with physiological dependence. He has no complicating medical concerns, works full time, and has no treatment resistance. Presently, he lives in an apartment with a friend who uses opiate pain medicine daily. This means opiate medication is in the household. Which of the ASAM Dimensions would have the most concern?
 - a. (P. 26, ASAM Criterion) Recovery and Living Environment (6). Having a client's drug of choice available to them in their living situation may pose a relapse risk.
5. Kim is a 17-year-old female diagnosed with drug dependence. Her parents are supportive and have removed all drugs of abuse from the home. She is presently behind in school. What would be the ideal level of care? Why?

- a. (P. 31, ASAM Criterion) Kim would benefit from an outpatient level of care. This allows her to remain in a sober drug free-environment in a caring household while remaining in school.
