Intermediate Accounting (Gordon/Raedy/Sannella)
Chapter 2 Financial Reporting Theory

2.1 Overview of the Conceptual Framework

1) The FASB has taken the conceptual framework to a higher level than the IASB.

Answer: FALSE

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP

AACSB: Application of knowledge

2) U.S. GAAP and IFRS set forth the same objective of financial reporting in their respective conceptual frameworks.

Answer: TRUE

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

3) The conceptual framework indicates that the primary users of financial information are the investors, lenders, and managers.

Answer: FALSE

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

4) The conceptual framework indicates that the primary users of financial information are the investors, lenders, and other creditors.

Answer: TRUE

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

5) Publicly traded U.S. companies are required to comply with IFRS.

Answer: FALSE

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

6) The FASB's decisions are often based on an investor's need to form an opinion about a company's future cash flows.

Answer: TRUE

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

- 7) What is the primary challenge for financial reporting?
- A) to stay relevant to the needs of investors
 - B) to stay relevant to the needs of lenders and creditors
 - C) to stay relevant to the needs of other financial statement users
 - D) both A & B
 - E) all of the above

Answer: D

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP

AACSB: Application of knowledge

- 8) The conceptual framework assists with_____.
- A) the development of a set of standards which provide absolute answers for accounting questions
 - B) the development of a set of standards for auditors to use when looking for material misstatements or fraud
 - C) the development of a set of standards which ensure that financial reports meet the needs of investors and creditors
 - D) All of the above

Answer: C

- 9) Which of the following types of information is not a focus of the primary objective of financial reporting?
- A) information that helps a banker decide to provide a loan
 - B) information that helps a manager assess the efficiency and effectiveness of operations
 - C) information that helps a supplier evaluate amount and timing of cash flows of its customers
 - D) information that helps an investor form an opinion about a company's future cash flows

Answer: D

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

- 10) The primary purpose of financial reporting is to provide information that is useful to a company's _____.
- A) suppliers
 - B) managers
 - C) regulators
 - D) employees

Answer: A

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

11) Which of the following is not considered to be a primary user of financial information for which financial reporting standards are designed?

- A) supplier
- B) investor
- C) regulator
- D) lender

Answer: C

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.1

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

12) Who are the primary users of financial information? Discuss how FASB and IASB take them into account.

Answer: Primary users are investors, lenders, and other creditors that cannot demand information from the entity. When making decisions regarding the conceptual frameworks, the boards consider the needs of these groups to have access to relevant information when assessing the financial health of a company and in forming opinions about the state of the company.

13) Ronaldo Woods is a student getting his degree in business administration. He does not like his accounting class very much, and doesn't understand why he needs to study accounting — stating "I'm never going to be an accountant — why do I need to know this?" Explain to Ronaldo why it is important for business students to learn about accounting and give examples.

Answer: Answers will vary — should include discussion on accountability and transparency. Other points could be the need to talk intelligently with their accountant, to know which gauges to watch (and be able to understand their meaning and consequence), and be able to identify economic events that could impact the company. (If open book exam, they could reference the interview with Paul Pacter from Section 2.2.)

Objective: 2.2

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP

AACSB: Analytical thinking

8) _____ are identical under U.S. GAAP and IFRS.

A) Elements and Recognition

B) Presentation and Disclosure

C) Objective and Qualitative Characteristics

D) Subjective and Quantitative Characteristics

Answer: C

Diff: 1

Objective: 2.2

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

9) Which of the following is not a purpose of FASB's conceptual framework?

A) aid in development of new standards

B) support understanding of accounting standards

C) assist with revision of accounting standards

D) override existing accounting standards

Answer: D

Diff: 1

Objective: 2.2

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP

10) When developing new standards, the standard setters must first determine_____.

A) which elements of the financial statements are affected by the proposed standard

B) if the proposed standard possesses the qualitative characteristics that make accounting information useful

C) if the proposed standard meets the objective of financial reporting

D) which recognition and measurement concepts are used to support the proposed standard

Answer: C

11) When developing a new proposed accounting standard, after FASB has determined that the proposed standard meets the objective of financial reporting, the next step in the development process is to_____.

- A) determine which elements of the financial statements are affected by the proposed standard
- B) consider whether the proposed standard possesses the qualitative characteristics that make accounting information useful
- C) weigh constraints on issuing the new standard, which may deter requiring the new standards
- D) identify recognition and measurement concepts used to support the proposed standard

Answer: B

12) The primary purpose of the conceptual framework is to provide guidance to_____.

- A) preparers of financial statements
- B) auditors
- C) standard setters
- D) CEOs

Answer: C

Explanation: C) The framework provides some guidance to preparers and auditors, but the best answer would be C, standard setters, as it provides them the most guidance with development of standards.

18) What is the purpose of the conceptual framework?

Answer: The purpose of the conceptual framework is to establish objectives and fundamental concepts that are the basis for developing and revising financial accounting and reporting standards.

Diff: 1

Objective: 2.2

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Application of knowledge

19) Discuss how standard setters use the conceptual framework in developing new standards.

Answer: Standard setters will:

- Determine if the proposed standard meets the objective of financial reporting.
- Establish that the information provided by the new standard possesses qualitative characteristics that make accounting information useful.
- Consider the elements of the financial statements affected and the recognition and measurement concepts used to support the new standard.
- Weigh constraints such as the cost and benefit of issuing the new standard, which may deter requiring the new standard.

26) Do you agree or disagree with the following statement: "Financial statements that are free from error are accurate." Explain your answer.

Answer: A financial statement that is free from error is not the same thing as an accurate statement. The nature of accrual accounting is one that relies on estimates; therefore, when saying information reported is free from error, it is really referring to the process used to generate the financial statements being error-free. The amounts reported may be different than the actual amounts in accounts that rely on estimates.

Diff: 2

Objective: 2.3

IFRS/GAAP: GAAP/IFRS

AACSB: Analytical thinking

27) What is the cost constraint and how does it affect financial reporting?

Answer: The conceptual framework stipulates that standard setters should compare the cost of requiring information to the benefits derived from presenting this information when developing accounting standards. The FASB and the IASB must determine that the costs of implementing a standard will not exceed the benefits that might be derived from it. Standard setters consider costs for both financial statement reporters and users. To be reported, accounting information not only must be relevant and faithfully represented but it also must pass an economic test by satisfying the cost constraint.

28) Caesar & Company is planning a major expansion, and is in negotiations with their bank for a loan. The bank requested that Caesar & Co provide them with financial statements as soon as possible after the end of the year. Caesar & Co has several suppliers that are slow to submit invoices, so they are considering making estimates for the amounts associated with those liabilities in order to expedite the preparation of the financial statements for the bank. Discuss the qualitative characteristics that they need to consider.

Answer: This will be a trade-off between verifiability and timeliness. By estimating the amounts for the liabilities, the statements will be less verifiable — because the associated invoices will not be available. However, this will allow them to prepare the statements quickly — and timeliness stipulates that financial information is available to users early enough to assist with decision making.

36) Identify the element, and whether it is point-in-time or period-of-time.

Definition	Element	Point-in-time or Period-of-time
Increases in equity (net assets) from peripheral or incidental transactions and from all other transactions and other events and circumstances affecting the entity with the exception of revenues or investments by owners.
Probable future economic benefits obtained or controlled by a particular entity as a result of past transactions or events.
Increases in equity resulting from transfers to it from other entities of something valuable to obtain or increase ownership interests (or equity) in it.
Outflows or other consumption of assets, incurrence of liabilities, or both — from delivering or producing goods, rendering services, or carrying out other activities that constitute the company's ongoing major or central operations.

44) Identify the three main approaches to expense recognition under U.S. GAAP — provide examples of each. How does IFRS expense recognition principles differ?

Answer: Under U.S. GAAP, the three main approaches are to match the expense with the related revenue, to expense it in the period incurred, or to systematically allocate the expense over periods of use. An example of matching the expense to the revenue would be matching the cost of goods sold expense to the related revenue recognized when the inventory is sold. Expensing in the period incurred would be recording supplies expense during the period that they were consumed. Depreciating a piece of equipment over its useful life is an example of systematic allocation. While U.S. GAAP focuses on determining the period when an expense is recognized, IFRS focuses on what expenses are recognized during a period. Specifically, IFRS recognizes all decreases in future economic benefits related to a decrease in an asset or an increase in a liability if can be reliably measured. Thus, the matching principle is not explicitly described as an expense recognition principle because it is subsumed under the other IFRS criteria.

45) What drives the measurement and timing of revenue recognition?

Answer: Companies should recognize revenue to record the transfer of control of goods or services that reflects the consideration to which the company expects to be entitled. This occurs when a company satisfies its performance obligations specified in the contract with a customer.

46) Identify the measurement base described in each definition, then indicate whether it applies to U.S. GAAP, IFRS, or both.

Definition	Measurement Base	U.S. GAAP or IFRS or both
The amount of cash (or equivalent) to be received in exchange for an asset, less the direct costs of disposal. In the case of a liability, it is the amount of cash (or equivalent) expected to be paid to liquidate the obligation, including any direct costs of liquidation.
The amount of cash (or equivalent) that the firm would receive by selling the asset in an orderly liquidation.
The amount of cash (or equivalent) that the firm paid to acquire the asset. In the case of a liability, this is the amount that the firm received when it incurred the obligation.
The amount of cash (or equivalent) that would be required if the firm acquired the asset currently.

Answer:

Definition	Measurement Base	U.S. GAAP or IFRS or both

- d. In February, Freddie's paid its bimonthly utility bill of $500. They are always billed this amount and pay at the end of the cycle.

Answer:

January

Cash basis: revenue $30,000 - expense $5,000 = $25,000

Accrual basis: revenue $15,000 - expense ($83.33 depreciation + $250 utility bill) = $14,666.67

February

Cash basis: revenue $6,000 - expense $500 = $5,500

Accrual basis: revenue $16,000 - expense ($83.33 depreciation + $250 utility bill) = $15,666.67
