Chapter 02 : The Environment of Advertising

1. The economic effect of advertising triggers a chain reaction of hard-to-predict economic events.

TRUE

AACSB: Analytic
Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation
Blooms: Remember
Difficulty: 1 Easy
Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: The economic effect of advertising is like the break shot in billiards or pool. The moment a company begins to advertise, it sets off a chain reaction of economic events. The extent of the chain reaction, although hard to predict, is related to the force of the shot and the economic environment in which it occurred.

2. Advertising can add value to a brand by educating customers about new uses for a product.

TRUE

Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: Advertising often also adds value to a brand by educating customers about new uses for a product.

3. The firms eliminated by competition tend to be those that served the consumers most efficiently.

FALSE

Difficulty: 2 Medium
Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: Intense competition does tend to reduce the number of businesses in an industry. However, firms eliminated by competition may be those that served customers least effectively.

4. The abundance principle states that advertising has little effect on a wealthy economy.

FALSE

AACSB: Analytic
Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation
Blooms: Understand
Difficulty: 2 Medium
Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: The importance of advertising is best demonstrated by the abundance principle. This states that in an economy that produces more goods and services than can be consumed, advertising serves two important purposes: It informs consumers of their alternatives (complete information), and it allows companies to compete more effectively for consumer dollars (self-interest).

5. When an ad states that chicken soup made with Swanson chicken broth “tastes as good as Grandma’s,” the advertiser is using puffery.

TRUE

Difficulty: 2 Medium
Learning Objective: 02-02 Examine the validity of the various social criticisms of advertising.
Topic: Social Criticisms of Advertising

Feedback: Puffery refers to exaggerated, often subjective claims that can’t necessarily be proven true or false, such as “the best,” “premier,” or “the only way to fly.”

6. One criticism of advertising is that ads are so powerful that consumers are helpless to defend themselves against the temptations and appeals of the ads.

 Topic: Social Criticisms of Advertising

Feedback: With the proliferation of new media choices, this externality is only likely to get worse. In addition to cluttered websites, our e-mail boxes are flooded with commercial messages and mobile advertising is surging.

8. Despite the increasing number of women in executive positions in the labor force, most modern advertisers have not changed their stereotypical depictions of women as subservient housewives and sex objects.

FALSE

 Difficulty: 2 Medium
 Learning Objective: 02-02 Examine the validity of the various social criticisms of advertising.
 Topic: Social Criticisms of Advertising

Feedback: In national advertising, the image of women is also changing from their historic depiction as either subservient housewives or sex objects. The change may be partially due to the increasing number of women in managerial and executive positions with both advertisers and agencies. In 2012, nearly 58 percent of women 16 years of age and older were in the labor force, and women occupied more than half of management, professional, and related positions. Advertisers want to reach, not offend, this sizable market of upwardly mobile consumers.

9. According to marketing professionals, advertising promotes a higher standard of living, subsidizes the arts, and supports freedom of the press.

TRUE

 Learning Objective: 02-02 Examine the validity of the various social criticisms of advertising.
 Topic: Social Criticisms of Advertising

Feedback: Marketing professionals say that advertising encourages the development of, and speeds the acceptance of, new products and technologies. Advertising, they point out, also promotes a higher standard of living; it pays for most of our news media and subsidizes the arts; it supports freedom of the press; and it provides a means to disseminate public information about important health and social issues.

10. Adherence to ethical and socially responsible principles is the moral obligation of advertisers.

TRUE

AACSB: Ethics

 Learning Objective: 02-04 Describe how government agencies regulate advertising to protect both consumers and competitors.
 Topic: The Role of Government Agencies in the Regulation of Advertising

Feedback: The Supreme Court has distinguished “speech” and “commercial speech” (speech that promotes a commercial transaction). But decisions over the last two decades suggest that truthful commercial speech is also entitled to significant, if not full, protection under the First Amendment.

12. While most children and parents are still joint consumers, more and more children are becoming sole decision makers about which products they want.

Difficulty: 2 Medium
Learning Objective: 02-04 Describe how government agencies regulate advertising to protect both consumers and competitors.
Topic: The Role of Government Agencies in the Regulation of Advertising

Feedback: Among the many federal agencies and departments that regulate advertising are the Federal Trade Commission, the Food and Drug Administration, the Federal Communications Commission, the Patent and Trademark Office, and the Library of Congress. Because these agencies' jurisdictions often overlap, advertisers may sometimes have difficulty complying with all of their regulations.

14. Deceptive advertising occurs when a consumer is "unjustifiably injured" or there is a "violation of public policy."

Topic: Deceptive Advertising

Feedback: The BBB operates primarily at the local level to protect consumers against fraudulent and deceptive advertising and sales practices. It often works with local law enforcement agencies to prosecute advertisers guilty of fraud and misrepresentation. Each year, the BBB investigates thousands of ads for possible violations of truth and accuracy.

23. In some cases, the Advertising Self-Regulatory Council (ASRC) is more effective than the court system in handling advertising disputes.

TRUE

Learning Objective: 02-05 Discuss the activities of nongovernment organizations in fighting fraudulent and deceptive advertising.

Topic: Self-Regulation of Advertising

Feedback: The ASRC is one of the most comprehensive and effective mechanisms for regulating American advertising. A U.S. district court judge noted that its “speed, informality, and modest cost,” as well as its expertise, give the ASRC special advantages over the court system in resolving advertising disputes.

Difficulty: 1 Easy

Learning Objective: 02-05 Discuss the activities of nongovernment organizations in fighting fraudulent and deceptive advertising.

Topic: Self-Regulation of Advertising

Feedback: Advertisers must submit all commercials intended for a network or affiliated station to its broadcast standards department. Many commercials (in script or storyboard form) are returned with suggestions for changes or greater substantiation. Some ads are rejected outright if they violate network policies.

25. Most advertisers welcome attention from consumer advocate groups because they make helpful suggestions but rarely succeed in having deceptive ads pulled.

FALSE

Learning Objective: 02-05 Discuss the activities of nongovernment organizations in fighting fraudulent and deceptive advertising.

Topic: Deceptive Advertising

Feedback: Today, with so many special-interest advocacy groups, even the most responsible advertisers feel challenged. To attract attention, advertising must be creative and stand out from competing noise. Yet advertisers fear attention from activists. When the protests start, the ads usually get pulled.

26. Externalities are best described as

28. Which of the following is a common way that advertising increases the value of a product?

- A. Advertised products meet higher quality standards than non-advertised products.
- B. Advertising eliminates all perceptual barriers to purchase a product or service.
- C. Advertising makes the product better known and thus more desirable.
- D. Advertising usually causes the prices of products to increase significantly.

 Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
 Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: While an ad may not address a product's quality directly, the positive image conveyed by advertising may imply quality. By simply making the product better known, advertising can make the product more desirable to the consumer. In this way, advertising adds value to the brand.

29. Which of the following statements about how advertising affects price is most likely true?
- A. Advertising has a strong effect on the price of agricultural products, such as soybeans.
 - B. Advertising always increases the price of a product.
 - C. The consumer who buys the product pays for the advertising.
 - D. Advertising has had a significant impact on the prices charged by utilities.
 - E. The amount typically spent on advertising is large compared with the total cost of the product.

AACSB: Analytic

 Blooms: Understand
 Difficulty: 3 Hard
 Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
 Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: As a cost of doing business, advertising is indeed paid for by the consumer. In most categories, though, the amount spent on advertising is very small compared with the total cost of the product. Advertising also enables manufacturers to engage in mass production, which in turn lowers the cost of products. In regulated industries (agriculture, utilities), advertising has historically had no impact on prices.

30. Which statement about how advertising affects competition is true?
- A. Advertising by large firms tends to have a limited effect on small firms.
 - B. Most single advertisers are large enough to dominate the entire nation.
 - C. Advertising is highly regulated so that it does not impede competition.
 - D. Intense competition tends to increase the number of businesses in an industry.
 - E. Non-advertised products are unable to compete with advertised, branded products.

AACSB: Analytic

 Blooms: Understand
 Difficulty: 3 Hard
 Learning Objective: 02-01 Describe the impact of advertising on the economy.
 Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: Advertising by big companies often has only a limited effect on small businesses because a single advertiser is rarely large enough to dominate the whole country. Some believe advertising restricts competition because small companies or industry newcomers cannot compete with the immense advertising budgets of large firms. Intense advertising does tend to reduce the number of businesses in an industry. And we have seen non-advertised store brands of food compete very effectively with nationally advertised brands on the same grocery shelves.

31. Lori and Juana are going to the mall. Lori wants to buy a pair of athletic shoes, and Juana wants to buy a pair of Reebok cross-trainers. Lori illustrates _____ demand while Juana illustrates _____ demand.

 Topic: Economic Role of Advertising

Feedback: Primary demand is demand for the entire product class. Selective demand is demand for a particular brand.

32. In declining markets, what effect does advertising have on primary demand?

- A. Advertising can turn the market around and make the product category popular again.
- B. Advertising can slow the rate of product decline somewhat.
- C. Advertising moves products quickly through the product life cycle.
- D. Advertising helps people choose between brands by providing price information.
- E. Advertising helps get new product categories off the ground by creating demand.

Feedback: In declining markets, when the only information people want is price information, advertising can influence selective demand—demand for a particular brand. But the only effect it will have on primary demand is to slow the rate of decline. Creating demand for new products is not associated with declining markets.

33. Suppose that the U.S. economy is going through a severe recession. Which of the following statements correctly describes the role of advertising expenditures in a recession?
- A. There is no relationship between advertising expenditures and recessions.
 - B. If all businesses increased their advertising expenditures, the recession would end.
 - C. During a recession, advertising expenditures help businesses protect their market shares.

91. Explain in brief the effect of advertisements on consumers and businesses.

The question of advertising's effect on consumer demand is complex. Studies show that promotional activity does affect aggregate consumption, but they disagree as to the extent of its influence. For example, the demand for tablets, smartphones, and laptop computers expanded at a tremendous rate, thanks in part to advertising but more to favorable market conditions. At the same time, advertising has not reversed declining sales of such items as hats, fur coats, and print newspapers.

95. List out the elements of Fair Information Practice Principles.

The "Fair Information Practice Principles" consist of five core elements: 1) Notice, which requires that the website clearly post its privacy policy. 2) Choice, which relates to consumers' level of control over being profiled and how their information is used. 3) Access, the ability for consumers to access information collected about them and make amendments to it. 4) Security, which requires that network advertisers make reasonable efforts to protect the data they collect from loss, misuse, or improper access. 5) Enforcement, a requirement that all industry members subject themselves to monitoring by an independent third party to ensure compliance with the Fair Information Practice Principles.

96. Distinguish between deceptive advertising and unfair advertising.

The FTC defines deceptive advertising as any ad that contains a misrepresentation, omission, or other practice that can mislead a significant number of reasonable consumers to their detriment. Unfair advertising occurs when a consumer is “unjustifiably injured” or there is a “violation of public policy” (such as other government statutes).

97. In terms of advertising, what are the roles and the responsibilities of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC)?

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) is the major regulator of advertising. Established by an act of Congress, the FTC is charged with ensuring “that the nation’s markets function competitively, and are vigorous, efficient, and free of undue restrictions.” The commission enforces a variety of federal antitrust and consumer protection laws and works to regulate the marketplace by eliminating acts or practices that are deceptive or unfair. It is the FTC’s responsibility to maintain the existence of many sellers in the marketplace, to strive to provide more complete information to consumers, and to keep the marketing process as free of externalities as possible.

98. Define comparative advertising, and describe how the FTC controls its misuse.

Comparative advertising is advertising that claims superiority to competitors in some aspect. In addition to being truthful, comparative ads must compare on some objectively measurable characteristic. Under current law, any advertiser that misrepresents its own or another firm’s goods, services, or activities is vulnerable to a civil action.

99. List and explain briefly the three courses of action open to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) once it has determined an ad is deceptive or unfair. When the FTC determines that an ad is deceptive or unfair, it may take three courses of action: negotiate with the advertiser for a consent decree, issue a cease-and-desist order, and/or require corrective advertising. A consent decree is a document the advertiser signs agreeing to stop the objectionable advertising without admitting any wrongdoing. If an advertiser refuses to sign a consent decree, the FTC may issue a cease-and-desist order prohibiting further use of the ad. The FTC may also require corrective advertising for some period of time to explain and correct offending ads.

100. What are the two operating arms of the Advertising Self-Regulatory Council (ASRC)? Briefly explain the function of each.

The ASRC has two operating arms: the National Advertising Division (NAD) of the Council of Better Business Bureaus and the National Advertising Review Board (NARB). The NAD monitors advertising practices and reviews complaints about advertising from consumers and consumer groups, brand competitors, local Better Business Bureaus, trade associations, and others. The appeals board for NAD decisions is the NARB, which consists of a chairperson and 70 volunteer members (40 national advertisers, 20 agency representatives, and 10 laypeople).
