5. iTunes software is often credited with the success of the Apple iPod MP3 player, because it made the iPod easier to use than competing players, and was difficult for competitors to duplicate. This is an example of a sustainable competitive advantage.

TRUE

A sustainable competitive advantage is an advantage over the competition that is not easily copied and thus can be maintained over a long period of time. iTunes made the iPod so easy to use that it was difficult for other MP3 players to compete, even at lower prices. Over time, some competitors have created similar tools, but it has been difficult enough to copy that these competitors have never really caught up.

Multiple Choice Questions

- 18. If a firm wants to develop a sustainable competitive advantage, it should
 - A. begin an aggressive campaign to buy up competitors.
 - B. copy the innovative features of other firms that are attractive to customers.
 - C. examine its operations and customer relations to identify significant things competitors cannot easily copy.
 - D. increase its marketing budget so that it outspends its competitors.
 - E. arrange to meet with competitors to discuss how to avoid direct competition.

A sustainable competitive advantage comes from doing things that add value and that are not easily imitated by competitors. The other options do not achieve this objective.

A. integrated marketing communications.

B. multimedia marketing.

C. diverse marketing communications.

D. comprehensive promotion.

E. managed marketing communications.

Integrated marketing communications (IMC) represents the promotion P of the four Ps. It encompasses a variety of communication disciplines—advertising, personal selling, sales promotion, public relations, direct marketing, and online marketing including social media—in combination to provide clarity, consistency, and maximum communicative impact.

86. One example of a customer loyalty program is

A. a "frequent diner" card at a restaurant, offering a free appetizer for every $100 in food purchases.

B. a quantity discount offered for large purchases at an office supply store.

C. seasonal sales on top-selling items.

D. an "everyday low price" policy on all products at a grocery store.

E. an extensive customer service training program for new employees at a hair salon.

A "frequent diner" program gives a customer an incentive to visit the restaurant more often, even if competitors try to win customers away with special menus or other offers, because the customer wants to earn the rewards that come with frequent visits.

Abercrombie & Fitch hopes that the customer's friends (who are probably very much like current customers) will click the link, visit the page, and make purchases. This is an example of a growth strategy.

- A. product proliferation

- D. diversification
- E. product development

In this situation, A&F is trying to sell more of its existing products to its current target market, which is a market penetration strategy. Market development would involve attracting new market segments, but the company is assuming that the friends of current customers will be similar to those customers (and thus part of the same market segment).

If Sodexo were to begin to sell individual frozen meals in supermarkets, it would be pursuing a growth strategy.

A. product development

B. market development

C. market penetration

D. diversification

E. product proliferation

Individually packaged frozen meals would be a new product area for Sodexo (even though it is still a food, the manufacturing process would be quite different from the bulk food service required by cafeterias and dining halls). Consumers in grocery stores would also be a new market, since Sodexo currently serves universities, the military, and the like. Thus, with a new

- 107. Which of the following factors, listed in a situation analysis for a major U.S. auto manufacturer, is the best example of a threat?
 - A. The factory that manufactures a new, popular car cannot build enough vehicles to meet the demand, while other factories have excess capacity.
 - B. Recent consumer studies have indicated that Chinese consumers prefer American cars.
 - C. A New York law firm has filed a $10 million class action suit against the company on behalf of car owners whose gas tanks exploded.
 - D. Due to outdated engine technology, the company's cars get lower gas mileage than those of major competitors.
 - E. The company has lower manufacturing costs than its key competitors, allowing it to sell its cars at low prices.

A threat is an external negative event. Being the target of a lawsuit is certainly a negative event, and the law firm is external to the company. Problems in balancing manufacturing capacity are internal to the firm and so are weaknesses. Potential demand in China is a positive external factor—an opportunity. A lower cost structure is a positive internal factor—a strength. The gas mileage issue might sound like a threat in that competitive offerings are superior, and competitors are external to the firm; however, the example states that gas mileage is inferior due to outdated technology, which is an issue internal to the firm.

the next several years. Nike is the market leader. According to Boston Consulting Group portfolio analysis, how should Nike treat its athletic shoe business?

A. Nike will probably have to invest heavily in the athletic shoe business, including extensive promotions and new production facilities.

B. Nike should consider exiting the athletic shoe market.

C. Nike should stop investing in its athletic shoe business; it has already reaped all the benefits it is likely to receive.

D. Nike's athletic shoe business still requires some investment, but is likely to produce excess resources that can be invested in other divisions of the company.

E. Nike should invest in the athletic shoe market only if it helps boost the sales of other products in fast-growing markets.

A market leader in a low-growth market is, in BCG terms, a cash cow. This means that, although Nike certainly wants to maintain its market leadership position, the athletic shoe business can be expected to generate excess resources that can be invested in other areas of the company. This question deals with the athletic shoe market as a whole—note that there could be niches that are growing rapidly, and where heavier investment might be warranted.

A. She should give bonuses to the managers of Stores 1 and 2, and put the Store 3 manager on probation.

B. She should ignore the sales data; they are not an appropriate marketing metric.

C. She should give each manager a raise, tied to the store results.

D. She should review at least 10 years of sales data about her stores' performance before making a decision.

E. She should seek more information about why the stores had different results before making a decision.

There could be a reason why one store performed more poorly than the others that is outside the store manager's control. For example, perhaps it is located in a shopping center that has lost tenants and has several empty storefronts. The shopping center would probably experience reduced traffic, which would likely hurt sales at the Subway shop.

Essay Questions

121. Of what use is a sustainable competitive advantage to a firm?

Establishing a sustainable competitive advantage makes it hard for competitors to enter a market or attract a firm's customers. The advantage should be difficult to copy and should be something that can be maintained over time.

122. The text states, "Viewing customers with a lifetime value perspective, rather than on a transaction-by-transaction basis, is the key to modern customer retention programs." Create an example demonstrating a lifetime value perspective. Why is customer retention almost always a profitable marketing strategy?

Answers to the first part will vary, but should demonstrate how much business a customer brings in over a lifetime. For example, a customer spending $4 at Starbucks, five days per week, for 20 years equals $20,800. Customer retention is profitable because it costs more to get new customers than to retain existing ones.

124. One of the benefits of taking marketing courses is the opportunity to apply marketing concepts to marketing yourself. When selling yourself, you are a product including all the skills, aptitudes, and attitudes you bring to the market. What is a sustainable competitive advantage?

What can you do to give yourself a sustainable competitive advantage in the marketplace?

A sustainable competitive advantage is something you can persistently do better than the competition. Skills including statistical analysis, ability to use technology, communication, and accounting are all important and valuable. Aptitudes including rational thinking and problem solving are lifelong abilities that can benefit any organization. Attitudes such as persistence, a sense of humor, and teamwork are valuable in any business environment. But, as best-selling author Stephen Covey suggests, we must always "sharpen the saw," meaning continually grow and learn in order to be successful and maintain a sustainable competitive advantage.

marketing planning process. During the planning phase of the process, what questions will Dr.

Wilson likely ask? Be specific to the university's strategic marketing planning process.

Answers will vary, but should begin with discussion of creating or revising the university's mission statement, leading to questions such as: What type of university are we? What does the university need to accomplish its goals and objectives? Additionally, discussion of the mission statement will likely lead to questions concerning how the university can build a sustainable competitive advantage. Dr. Wilson will also assist with the situation analysis, which will include internal examination of the current status of the university, asking questions such as: What are the university's strengths and weaknesses? Questions about external forces, 127. Your marketing professor, Dr. Murphy, has been asked to participate in the university's strategic marketing planning process. After completing the planning phase of the process, Dr. Murphy has been asked to assist with the STP analysis. What questions will Dr. Murphy ask during the STP analysis? Be specific to the university's strategic marketing planning process.

STP analysis includes segmentation, targeting, and positioning. Dr. Murphy will ask questions such as: What basis for segmentation should be used? Should the university's market be divided based on age, income, geographic area, or maybe educational interests?

After segmentation, which segments can be pursued profitably, or targeted?

Many market segments will likely be identified, but Dr. Murphy will often have to ask, Can we effectively and efficiently reach that group of potential consumers? (For example, one university considered providing educational services to a local prison but ran into a host of problems making it impossible to target that market.)

Last, Dr. Murphy will ask questions about how the university intends to position itself in the various market segments: What products or services are going to be promoted? How are the university's products and services different from what competitors are offering? Where and how can the university build on existing strengths?

Should we charge higher or lower prices for online programs? Place or value delivery questions might include these questions: Should we emphasize day or night programs, classroom or online programs? Should the university open satellite campuses? Last, Dr. Sullivan will ask questions regarding where and how to promote the university's programs. One of the critical but potentially controversial questions will be how to allocate the university's resources. Dr. Sullivan will have to be careful when recommending additional resources for the marketing program!

Jamie should start by looking closely at the data. Were the successful salespeople selling one or two items at discounts in order to generate volume, or did they sell the full line of the company's materials to each customer, resulting in increased sales? Did the poorly performing sales reps sell to fewer customers, make too many small sales, or fail to sell the full line of materials? After reviewing the data, Jamie will probably talk with each sales rep and ask about that person's results, both those exceeding goals and those not meeting goals. Jamie will seek to explain the variation and utilize the information to make changes.

lines into a two-by-two matrix. What are the bases of classification and what are the products or product lines in each of the four quadrants called? What marketing strategies are usually considered for each of the four classifications?

The two bases of classification are relative market share (high-low) and market growth rate (high-low). This leads to four quadrants labeled stars, cash cows, dogs, and question marks.

• Stars: high market share/high growth rate. Usually require continued promotion efforts and expansion of production capacity.

• Cash cows: high market share/low growth rate. Sources of funding for other parts of the firm.

They typically require modest promotional and production support.

• Dogs: low market share/low growth rate. Candidates to be phased out unless they are needed to complement or boost sales of other products.

• Question marks: low market share/high growth rate. Candidates for strategic

Your sales manager wants you to stop selling those products that are in slow-growth markets and in which the company has a small relative market share. The manager also wants you to spend more time and effort selling products that are in high-growth markets and in which the company has a high market share. Finally, you should continue to sell but not put additional effort into high relative market share, low-market-growth products, referred to as cash cows.

After finishing his marketing degree, Ryan inherited the family shrimp shack restaurant. The restaurant is a small, local institution that beach visitors have been coming to for decades.
 Ryan wants to make his business grow and is considering either a market penetration or market development strategy. Describe what Ryan will likely do if he pursues either strategy.

If Ryan pursues a market penetration strategy, he will likely expand advertising and promotion, maybe adding billboards, promoting specials, adding hours, and likely expanding the restaurant to serve more customers.

If Ryan pursues a market development strategy, he will attempt to serve new market segments. Since his product is a restaurant, market development would likely include opening additional locations in other areas, offering the same menu.

The new owners want to grow through either a product development or diversification current target market. A nursery could logically provide a landscape design consulting service, landscape maintenance service, soil and pest testing service, or add additional products such as indigenous plants. If they pursue a diversification strategy, they would market new products or

140. Several years ago, the Florida Orange Juice Growers Association ran a promotional campaign with the slogan "Orange juice. It isn't just for breakfast anymore." Based on this slogan, which of the four growth strategies was the association pursuing? Briefly explain your reasoning.

The best answer is that this is a market penetration strategy. The slogan seeks to increase sales of a current product (orange juice), which reduces the options to market penetration or market development. "It isn't just for breakfast anymore" sounds like the Growers Association want those who drink orange juice at breakfast time to consider it at other times of the day too. In other words, it focuses on increasing usage among current customers, which is market penetration.

Some students might say that it is a market development strategy. For this to be correct, they would have to argue that a different market segment that currently doesn't drink orange juice is being targeted.

• Product excellence: Focus on continually improving the products and making them the most advanced ones on the market, perhaps using stylish yet durable fabrics that won't be

• Customer excellence: Offer outstanding service, perhaps including live chat on the website

• Operational excellence: Develop close relationships with suppliers of fabric and other raw materials and with retailers.

If you want to make this question more difficult, you can add to the question the following:

A reasonable argument can be made for this being a strength or an opportunity, so this is about the rationale offered. This could be viewed as a strength in that Nike's logo is ubiquitous and well recognized, and customers in Nike's target markets will be reminded of the many sports for which Nike offers shoes and apparel. It could also be viewed as an opportunity to
